Personal Statement

In 1000 or fewer words, we want to hear more about you as a person and how you plan to contribute to the conservation of our natural world and its inhabitants. How has conservation been important to you in your life? What or who inspired you? How long have you been interested in the environment? What aspects of nature appeal to you most? What will be your field of study? Why have you chosen this field? We're looking for quality over quantity in your personal statement. Save the rhetorical masterpiece in favor of significant and true anecdotes, which help us understand your perspective on life and the environment.
